Several Skits, Tap Dances and Impersonations Feature Program

An all University women's banquet was held last evening at 6 o'clock at the University Commons. Every year this banquet is looked forward to as the climax of the year's activities of all honorary fraternities. It is at this time that these fraternities take the opportunity to award outstanding women students at the University.

This year, the banquet was sponsored by the newly-elected Women's Administrative Council, with the president, Lucy Jean Anderson; secretary, Fannie Herman; and treasurer, Betty Dimock, in charge. The program was opened with all the guests singing "Hail Kentucky, Alma Mater." Lucy Jean Anderson then introduced President and Mrs. Frank L. McVey, who spoke to the assembly.

Phi Upsilon Omicron, professional home economics sorority, announced its new initiates as follows: Courtney Cannon, Ruth Rowbotham, Nell Shaver, Virginia Winslow, Mary Chauvel, Camille Hedges, Dorothy Holcomb, Nancy Trimble, and Margaret Whaley. Miss Faye Allen announced on behalf of Phi Upsilon.

REUNION PLANS ARE DISCUSSED

U. K. Alumni Group Draws Up Tentative Program of Meetings at 1935 Commencement

PLAN 2-DAY PROGRAM

Plans for reunions during the Commencement season this year of all graduating classes ending in "0" and "5", including a tentative program consisting of reunion luncheons and a final banquet, were discussed at a meeting of the executive committee of the University Alumni Association at the home of Miss Betty Hulett on the Nicholasville pike last night at 8:30 o'clock.

A reunion committee has been working on the plans for several weeks. Dr. G. Davis Buckner, chairman of this committee, has asked different members of the classes having reunions to act as class committeemen. These persons will get in touch with members of their classes and inform them of the program. All former students of the University and members of the University Alumni Association are welcome to attend the various meetings.

The program suggested by the committee would continue through two days and would consist of registration, class day exercises, luncheons, various receptions, the baccalaureate and commencement services, and the annual Alumni banquet. Anyone desiring information regarding the proposed plans should get in touch with the Alumni office at the University.

L. K. Frankel, chairman of the executive committee, presided at the meeting. Those present were L. K. Frankel, Dr. E. Cronly Elliott, Miss Margie McLaughlin, Miss Betty Hulett, Mr. James Shropshire, Mr. Maury Crutcher, Miss Lullie Logan, Miss Willy King, Mrs. Tom Underwood, Dr. G. Faculty League Will Make Down Payment With Subscriptions

Plans for the installation of a bowling alley at the University were announced yesterday by Thomas D. Boyd, assistant superintendent of the Buildings and Grounds Department and a member of the Faculty Bowling League.

The League, which at the present is composed of 12 teams of five men per team, has been organized for five years, and during that time has been playing on the alleys downtown. Mr. Boyd pointed out that the establishment of alleys at the University would be an economy in the long run and stated that the money necessary for the down payment is now being subscribed to by members of the League and others interested in bowling.

"It is hoped that the student body will take an interest in the sport," Mr. Boyd stated, "We would like to see it established as an intramural activity."

Anyone interested in subscribing is urged to see Mr. Boyd at his office in the Buildings and Grounds department.

RAIN, RAIN, WON'T YOU GO AWAY? RIVER, STAY AWAY FROM MY DOOR

Rain.....rain..... When's it going to rain again? Rain.....

When ya goin' to fill..... At last the question is answered. In fact after a glance out the window it isn't even necessary to ask when it's going to rain again. The vital question now is when's it going to stop raining again.

It seems like the flood dams up all week and then lets loose on Saturdays and Sundays. Weekdays are already spudded with what with classes and things but why do week-days have to be drenched with torrents of water?

Well, about the only reason that has been figured out so far is that the new sewer down by the gym has to be tested out. Some of the old-timers can remember back in '32 when the creek rose and flooded the lockers in the gym. A few go so far as to say that it cost five cents to get ferried across Lexington streets. Things got so bad that

THOMAS A. COMBS

With the passing of Thomas A. Combs, former state senator, and prominent Lexington business and political figure, at his home Sunday afternoon, the University loses one of its staunchest supporters.

He served several terms as state Senator from Fayette county and was directly responsible for the appropriation of funds by the General Assembly for the erection of Boyd Hall. Senator Combs' work in procuring funds for the maintenance of the University of Kentucky; and his wholehearted support of this institution have made his memory imperishable to the students, faculty members, and alumni of the University.

His death was not unexpected as he had been confined to his home on the Newtown pike since 1932, when he had a paralytic stroke, but had carried on his business from his home. He was born in Breathitt county and received his early education in the schools there and removed later to Powell county where he engaged in business before coming to Lexington in 1893 to assist his father and brothers in the organization of the Combs Lumber company. He was its first president and has continued in that capacity until the present.

Senator Combs was Mayor of Lexington for several years and was President of the Swiss Oil corporation which was one of the pioneers in developing the Eastern Kentucky oil field. In addition to his services in behalf of the University, Mr. Combs was a leader in the civic life of the community and the patron of many charitable organizations. His life of service to his fellow men will be reverently remembered by generations to come, when the names of Kentucky's great are passed in review.

EMBARGO?

Lowell Thomas, Friday, in his regular evening news broadcast told of two American pilots being "grounded" in South America for flying two airplanes of American make which had been hastily remodeled as bombers for service in the current war between Bolivia and Paraguay.

The United States had refused previously to allow the American manufacturer to deliver the bombers. A shrewd scheme on the part of the manufacturer in converting the warships into commercial ones got an approval of shipment from the government. After they had been flown by the two American pilots out of United States territory, they were hastily equipped as the bombers they once had been.

Government officials had watched the maneuvers apparently, and demanded the licenses of the pilots. But they acted too late—they closed the stable door after the horse had escaped. What is to prevent the American war profiteer from making his money? Can not several of the pilots of the patron nation's forces take the planes to the field of action from such a close point without harm from United States protests?

The ensuing years will bring with them far greater difficulties for the government in controlling the munitions racketeers under their present preposterous status. If the administrative officials continue to conduct an embargo in such a haphazard and unintelligible fashion, how can it hope to prevent the United States from entering another war? We should regard ourselves as fortunate in having a chance to affect an embargo which, after all, is of experimental importance. Likewise, the blunder that has been made should be considered a blot upon the intelligence and foresight of those responsible for the incident.

ABOUT PROFESSORS

The investigation made recently by The Daily of what students really think of their professors started off echoing reverberations throughout the contemporary collegiate press. Some of the student papers, a bit contemptuous, titled their editorials, "What, That Again?" Others wondered shyly what such a survey would uncover on their own campuses. A few others hatched up their galluses and tried to lay out the qualifications that made up a good teacher. The Daily Maroon of the University of Chicago laid down seven sensible requirements:

1. He must be a thoroughly humane, which means he must have a sympathetic understanding of the human personality, and must bear in mind that his responsibility is not to subjects but to human beings.
2. He must be a teacher, not a taskmaster.
3. His purpose must be to develop, not to indoctrinate.
4. He must have knowledge, not only information.
5. He must be educated, he must see his specialty in the light of knowledge as a whole. A teacher who has no interest in subjects other than his own, or tends to belittle other subjects, is an ignoramus and a menace to students.
6. He must be intelligent, he must be imbued with a zeal for growing in knowledge.
7. As far as possible he must not feed his students with rehearsed mental food, but strive to send them to the springs of knowledge, to the great original minds of the ages, through whom they might be inspired with the spirit of knowledge, the spirit of searching and investigation.—McGill Daily.

Hoi Polloi

By JOHN Q.

Your veteran dirt-slinger, Coffman, gets a vacation this Tuesday—while we see what we can do with this lousy column. Our brick-topped editor will most likely cut most of the dirt from the following paragraphs—but, so be it. Hold your hats—here we go!

Kitchen Shower

Lloyd Averitt, the brains behind "Bargains in Brains," in insurance class, suggested that the class have a kitchen shower for Pinner Jeff Baynam and Pinnee Allice Coppedge. Kappa Dot Williams, the chairman of the committee in charge, suggests frying pans with green handles and fur lined molasses jars.

We understand that, after returning from a date with Tridelt Dot Walker, Ed Carvill sent for a certain little book. Maybe KA. John Breckinridge could give you a couple of pointers, Ed.

Kelly "the kop" says, "All of this rain certainly has kept my snooping in the Botanical Gardens at a low ebb. I'll be glad when the weather gets better so that I can try out my new flashlight."

When talking about visual sensations in psychology, someone asked Doctor Beaumont what the visual sensations of a horse were. Doctor Beaumont replied, "Never having been a horse, I can't say." We'd say that some members of the faculty are actually getting witty.

"Pitty-pat"

Just what is this "pitty-pat" that Kappa Mary Lally is being kidded about? Ask Lally; if she won't tell we will—next Tuesday.

Helen Young is unplanned! After being pinned to Doss Reid for almost a year, she ended the affair during Doss' spring vacation from W. and L. We write this here, not because the pin made any difference to Helen as far as courting other boys, but so that the college boys will know that Helen is open for another pin.

Everyone on the campus is sick

LITERARY

Sonnet

Strange how that tune with its haunting melody,
Filled with the beating of longing hearts and hands,
Of purple and yellow evenings, and the sea
Foaming, foaming on the white-hot sands,
Speaks to me of nights when the stars swung low,
And the moon was vivid orange in a sky of black,
And the long blue swell of the waves was slow:
When we pushed the bamboo curtain back of hearing SAE Lou Henegen rave about his SAE boys—and about what a fine intramural ball team his organization is going to have. Incidentally, the SAE boys and the Sigma Chi boys, nearly came to blows when the SAE boys tried to have Sigma Chi plebe Jones made ineligible for the intramural track meet.

World's Record

Saturday afternoon, in the intramural track meet, that was held on a track covered with an inch of water, a world's record was made in the 220 yard dash. When checking up, Coach Shively found that the thimble had run only 180 yards instead of the customary 220 yards.

The most outstanding event of the week: Dick Robinson wore a coat, vest, shirt, collar and tie Saturday night and all day Sunday. Dick must have fallen in love, or simply—

"No Claim"

We saw Sigma Nu Buster Hubbard looking mournfully at Ann Stevenson, was sipping a coke with Buster's frat brother, Jimmy Moore. When asked about Ann, Buster said, "Aw, well, I have no claims on her." Incidentally, we saw that KA Bob Snyder was in Lexington the last week-end, to escort Ann to the KA dance. The return of an old love, Ann?

Silly Girl?

By secret polling, the college boys of the University have elected Tridelt Eleanor Warren as the silliest girl on the campus. A misinterpretation of the word "hall" for something else in Dean Jones class last Saturday may have added to this opinion.

Joe Goodson wants to know if the soup bowl (hat) that Caroline Hurst has been seen wearing, ever held soup. This so called hat is the goofiest looking bit of wearing apparel that we have ever cast our peepers on.

If any reader of this column (both of you) want a surprise, get Dick Tooley to show you the picture that he recently took of Phoebe Ellis. What a girl!

Lambda Chi Tick Martin won a dollar from his frat brothers Sunday by lying in the gutter in the pouring rain for five minutes. Tick must have been badly in need of funds!

We understand that one Helen Rich has taken "Jane's" place in Pete Reininger's existence.

Lost In A Fog?

'Tis said that KA Bill Smith pinned a gorgeous femme at the dance that his lodge gave Saturday night. This may not seem unusual, for a college boy to pin a girl, but when the boy doesn't remember who it was that he pinned, this is a little odd!

We offer our congratulations to Sigma Chi Bill Swishhelm and Tridelt Kathleen Cole. Kathleen is now wearing Swiss! Sig Chi badge—and we think that they make a fine pair. It seems as if poor Leo Spence just cannot stay out of this column. Leo seem to be catching it pretty bad from these Tridelts. Why don't you try the Chi Omegas or Kappas, Leo—maybe you would have better luck than you have had with about three of the Tridelt ladies. Anyway, Swiss seems to be the power. Tough luck, Leo.

H. Y. B., and we will be back again next Tuesday. If you do not know the meaning of H. Y. B., just ask Turnipseed or Slack.

And lay in the sand with our eyes on the sky.
No need for words; the hours sped by
All the moon grew dim, and coral water beat
In little swirls of silk around our feet.
Then—then, if ever in the world,
'twas true
Two breathed as one, in me and you.
—HELEN FRANCES JONES.

To a Modern Madonna

She never rode the subway in the evening rush
Nor hurried in the morning to a desk—
For five at night was time for prayers and mush
And eight A. M. meant babies to be dressed.
When light went dim in all the music halls,
And symphony violinists raised their bows
She must be near for "drink-of-water" calls
Or see that drops were put in some small nose.
Spring did not mean white violets in style
Or that the boulevards abroad were gay—
She only thought, "Now in a little while,
I'll take them early to the park to play."
She left to other heads the nations fate
The while her sisters met in quorum groups
She voted, early, for her husband's candidate—
And feared a revolution less than a coup.
—DOROTHY TANNER CABOT.

Incidentally this poem was written for the "other" modern woman after the writer had read "Must Married Women Work?" by Katherine Gauss Jackson in the current Scribner's. The note enclosed by the writer impressed me so much that I couldn't resist giving you a taste of her philosophy.

"It has always seemed something of an emotional tragedy to me to consider the great numbers of modern, intelligent girls, feverishly preparing for brilliant careers when all they ever in the world were meant to be are mothers to a batch of babies. I think it is a problem directly responsible to a strange sophistry of belief which sends all of us young things to college and courses in geology and higher math when most of us would be better off with a little home ec., and a pretty extensive nurses' training course."

For a long time I, too, have debated the question and have come to practically the same conclusion—that we "gals" (some of us, at least) are travelling the wrong road. I don't mean to intimate that girls are not capable of handling the most difficult subjects, but I'm afraid that most of us are just fooling ourselves when we talk about careers. The fact is that most of us are afraid that we won't get someone to take care of us and that careers will compensate our disappointment.

No doubt, Professor Knight would agree with me in some respects and he goes so far to say (quoting with his permission) that all women want in this world is a home and protection. I can't agree sincerely with his idea but I will say that he is right in part.

Dusk

The sun now sinks in the western sky,
Birds fly homeward, night draws nigh,
Shadows lengthen on the wall,
Dusk descending over all.

Owls are hooting, mothers croon,
Slowly rises the golden moon.
Fireflies lighting, crickets sing—
Night descending on everything.

Results of the recent speech tournament—we bet that the women got in their usual last word.

"Little Entente swings into line"—headline. Probably a "life" line at that.

To Evening

An evening star lights up the sky,
A mother croons a lullaby
The round moon rises o'er the hill
And everything is peaceful, still.

The moon climbs higher on its way,
To reach its goal o'er break of day.
The stars the glorious heavens fill—
And everything is peaceful, still.

While o'er the world mortals sleep,
And silent stars a vigil keep,
Spread over all—o'er dale and hill—
Is slumber quiet, peaceful, still.
—KATHRYN.

Geology Museum Will Be Opened Soon

New Collections and Materials Have Been Added Recently

The Geology Museum in the Administration building is expected to be reopened in the near future. It was announced by the curator, Mr. David M. Young. The repairs that have been in progress have almost been completed and the museum has taken on a new appearance since it has been plastered, painted and the floor sanded.

All during the time that the repair work has been going on, new collections and materials have been added to the museum. The Department of Geology has entered into an exchange agreement with Dr. Paul Dunn of the Mississippi State college. Through this agreement with Doctor Dunn, the museum has acquired, as its first exchange, an unusually fine collection of Cretaceous fossils. It is planned to have these on exhibition at the opening of the museum. In return for this collection there was sent to Doctor Dunn three large boxes of Ordovician, Silurian, Devonian and Mississippian fossils that were found in Kentucky.

Another exchange was effected with Harvard University and a piece of the Cynthiana meteorite was obtained. This meteorite and aerolite fell near Cynthiana in 1877. The museum also has portions of other 'falls' in Kentucky, which include the Bath Furnace and the Cumberland Falls meteorites.

Other recent acquisitions include a large polished section of the Kenton County siderite and the Williamson siderite. These meteorites were obtained from Ward's Natural Science Establishment in Rochester, New York.

When the museum is opened it will have on display portions of seven of the seventeen meteorite falls that have been discovered in Kentucky.

Other new exhibits that have been in preparation while the museum has been closed for repairs include a large collection of petrified wood and a suite of fossil wood specimens from Nevada showing various stages of replacement by opal, some of which is of gem grade. Also a collection of fossil plants from the West including such familiar objects as acorns, leaves and winged maple seeds. Mr. Young will also have on exhibit a group of miniature dinosaur and mammal restorations.

When the museum is again opened to the public use the two large rooms that have heretofore been used as offices will be devoted to the new exhibits.

JEST AMONG US

To girls looking for a profitable marriage, those geologists "would seem about the best bet; they're the fellows with the rocks."

CAMPUS PERSONALITIES

By CAPEL McNASH

The Queen of the Junior Prom, Mary Lewis Shearer, was born in Lexington in 1914. She is a Chi Omega, and has reddish hair and dark brown eyes.

When she goes to Dunn's she generally orders a Cocoa Cola "like everybody else," but if you give her a nice big dish of chocolate ice cream, she wouldn't refuse it.

Tennis and swimming are her favorite sports, but she is fond of horses and riding too, even if she has been thrown several times. It seems that the accidents occurred in Michigan, where the ground is not very hard.

Ray Noble, of New York, has the orchestra which, to Mary's mind, produces the very best music. She would rather hear him play "Star-dust" than any other piece.

Her house of dreams would be in the country, on a lake, and there would be dogs and goldfish. She would like to have a motorboat, but would be satisfied with just a row boat or canoe.

The Shearer family is Scotch Irish, mostly. Mary is a little skeptical about the tradition that Scotch people are stingy, but says that where there is so much smoke, there is probably some fire.

Her ideal man must be tall, blond and not too serious, and he may pursue any career, almost, except aviation or writing. Just where, I wonder, does that leave me?

They tell at St. Olaf College (Northfield, Minn.) about the experience of the sweet girl graduate who became a small town grade school teacher. In filling out a health report for one of her charges, to be sent to his home, she followed her collegiate training and abbreviated the spelling of "poor nutrition."

She had just opened the room the next morning when a paunchy grocery dealer stomped into the room, waving the report card and demanding what she meant by calling his son a poor nut!

For your private information: Sally Rand was a student at Columbia University (New York City). It is not known, however, whether she found any courses there suitable as preparation for her chosen career.

Speaking of Syracuse University, we want to mention the delightful statement attributed to the boxing coach there. He advocates that girls take up the sport, adding, innocently enough, "of course they will be starting from scratch, but..."

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By JOE QUINN

Although it rained hard enough last Saturday to hold a swimming meet, C. H. Hackensmith evidently decided that "the show must go on" and the annual intramural track and field meet was held in spite of the inclement weather conditions. And despite the tough going, the meet, at least from the standpoint of performances, was one of the most successful of its kind in recent years.

When the afternoon was over, Triangle fraternity had copped the team honors, as well as the majority of individual laurels, with Sigma Chi in second place and the S. A. E.'s third. The five-man Engineer team outclassed the field, with Rogan and Rigby in the lead in the mile.

Rogan won the quarter and half mile runs, finishing far ahead of his nearest rival in the half mile event in the fine time of 2:03. Rigby paced the field to take the 100 yard dash in 10.6, and then came back to win the 220. Because of the poor condition of the track the 220 yard dash had to be shortened about 20 yards. These two boys, both freshmen, by the way, then teamed up with Nelson and Cantrell to give the Triangles three more firsts in the various relays, the quarter, half mile and mile events. To put the finishing touches on the Engineer afternoon, and make a clean sweep of the track events, Begley, Triangle sophomore, grabbed off a first in the hurdles. If you consider the track, which is not the best even on dry days, was soggy and uncertain, these fine performances are worthy of note for future reference.

Head Coach Chet Wynne plans to put his Wildcat football aspirants on exhibition for the public at large for their first time since spring work-out have been started, on Friday afternoon. The candidates have already been divided into two squads, the Blues and the Whites, with an attempt being made to balance the rival teams as evenly as possible.

Last Wednesday afternoon, Coach Wynne gave orders to have the field lined off and as soon as the work was completed, he picked two teams and lined them up as in a regular game. All the spectators who had come to watch the intramural track trials soon deserted the runners to gaze on Kentucky's new gridiron machine in its initial performance.

With the assistant coaches checking on mistakes, the same thing was repeated on Friday afternoon.

After these rehearsals, the candidates should be in condition to put on a good show for the spectators on Friday.

At the national convention of basketball coaches held in Chicago last week, Nat Holman, City College of New York mentor, acting as spokesman of the eastern teams, came out in favor of the elimination of the pivot play. However, coaches from all the other sections of the country, including Coach Adolph Rupp of the Wildcats, favored the retention of the play. Coach Rupp declared that the play caused little trouble in the South where the players had learned to play the pivot position clearly.

Rafinesque chapter of Phi Epsilon Phi, honorary botany fraternity, held their first April meeting last Thursday, April 4, with a program, introduced by the program chairman, James Cooper.

A discussion on the Orchid family was given by Hamford Shacklette, president of the chapter, which included points on their vegetative structure and habits. Most of the members of this family inhabit the tropical regions of this planet, while among those which are found in the temperate zones are the Lady's Slipper, and the Coral Root, which doesn't have any green coloring in its makeup. Mr. Shacklette's talk also included a brief on the culture of orchids in greenhouses.

A field trip to Boone Creek will be made by the members of the fraternity this coming Saturday, which will be followed by a picnic supper. Also discussion on the society's banquet, to be held the latter part of April or first of May, was held.
